Dear Colleagues and Friends,

It is a pleasure to keep in touch with you! We had a very active period of WPA activities during the last three months.

My first visit to the WPA Secretariat as SG, in the third year of this triennium took place from January 23-25, 2017. WPA Berlin timetable was discussed and we had a conference call with the Berlin Congress Secretariat. This was very useful and preliminary logistics were worked out. We were holding WPA elections through electronic software during the last two elections and we are working out a similar process for 2017 as well. We will also hold the triennial WPA General Survey in 2017 and we request your active participation in it.

We had a useful meeting with Prof. Jean-Michel Aubry, Head of the Department of Psychiatry at HUG (where the WPA Secretariat is located). On January 24th, SG had a meeting at the International Organization for Migration HQ Geneva and had discussion with Maurizio Busatti, Head, Multilateral Processes Division and his team which was very fruitful.

WPA International Conference on Education in Latin America held at Cuenca, Ecuador, February 8-11, 2017 was a big success. The WPA EC also met on the occasion and had much fruitful discussions. We are now looking forward to the WPA Inter Zonal Congress at Vilnius, Lithuania, 3-6 May 2017 and above all to the World Congress of Psychiatry, October 8-12, 2017. Please visit our newly designed website www.wpanet.org and kindly send us your valuable comments.

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

Welcome to the first newsletter of 2017.

Following the successful launch of Bill of Rights for Individuals with mental illness, an Early Day Motion was placed in the House of Commons at Westminster Parliament supporting it. 61 organisations from around the globe have signed up to this. The Bill of Rights for Children is also available and please get your Association/Organisation to support both the Bills of Rights. These are available on the WPA website.

As mentioned previously, complete details of the discrimination survey were published in a special issue of International Review of Psychiatry volume 28(4). The contents are available online.

WPA Position Statements on Perinatal and Maternal Mental Health and a separate one on Prisoner Mental Healthcare will be launched shortly. Please look out for these on the WPA website.

After two successful round table meetings on violent radicalisation (hosted by the WPA Collaborating Centre in London) and another one on early Interventions in Psychiatry (hosted by Hong Kong College of Psychiatrists) the next Round Table on Migrant Mental Health will be held in Oslo, Norway later this month. Report from Africa Forum (held in Cape Town in November 2016) is being prepared and will be available soon.

The work on setting up Diploma in Psychological Medicine aimed at psychiatrists continues apace and we hope to launch it in June this year.

We are continuing to look for examples of good clinical practice around the world so that we can learn from each other. Please keep them coming.

Please check the website regularly and get involved.

Best wishes,

WPA International Conference on Education in Latin America: “Perspective in Education and Research”, was held from February 7th to 11th at Cuenca, Ecuador as a joint initiative of the World Psychiatric Association, the Ecuadorian Association of Psychiatry and the WPA Secretary for Education. The exchange of ideas among 259 attendees, Ecuadorian and international speakers representing 22 countries of the world (UK, France, Belgium, Australia, Pakistan, Spain, Hong Kong, USA, India, Armenia, Greece, Japan, Argentina, Mexico, Costa Rica, Uruguay, Colombia, Honduras, Venezuela, and others), allowed to explore the opportunities on education and research in the Latin American region.

The attendance of undergraduate and graduate medical students with scholarships and the meeting with representatives of the community and families at the Cuenca Congress are examples of good practice and learning from each other. The scientific content had a wide range of main topics in multiple aspects of the specialty, as the interaction of comorbidities and physical diseases. The WPA Executive Committee also met at the venue, chaired by President Dinesh Bhugra. The joint meeting of the Operational Committee on Education and the education group was also held. The Congress was a grand success.

From the Secretary for Scientific Sections

Greetings from WPA Sections! Scientific Sections are actively involved in promoting and disseminating WPA’s mission and scientific knowledge around the globe. With an ever increasing number of Sections (now 72) their work continues to be acknowledged across a number of domains including teaching, training, clinical and academic areas.

Following an active presentation in the WPA’s international conference at Cape Town with more than 28 symposia / workshops / Round table sessions, WPA Sections had emerged as a major component of WPA in the field of science and academics. I am pleased to report that the next regional conference in Vilnius will also highlight a number of intersectional sessions including an intersectional teaching and training programme and a WPA intersectional forum on Public mental Health.

WPA SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS: BOOKS AND JOURNALS

There are many important activities to report.

1. World Psychiatry

Our journal, World Psychiatry, is Number 1 among psychiatric journals with an impact factor of 20.205 and is in the top 50 of all scientific journals indexed by Thomson Reuters. When the next impact factor of the journal will be released in June, it will certainly be higher. Sincere appreciation and congratulations to Mario Maj, M.D., Ph.D., who is editor-in-chief of World Psychiatry.

2. Professor Constantin Soldatos has published a new volume, Pluralism in Psychiatry: II. Multidimensional Considerations, eds. C. Soldatos, D. Dikeos, P. Ruiz, D. Bhugra and M. Riba (Medimond Publications, Bologna, 2015). We sincerely appreciate the extraordinary leadership and valuable contributions that Professor Soldatos and colleagues have made to WPA and to our portfolio of scientific publications!

3. WPA Scientific Publications Operational Committee, under the leadership of Reinhard Heun, Christopher Szabo and Peter Tyrer, have been working with Secretary General Roy Kallivayalil to upload open-access journals to the WPA Webpage, making these journals available to WPA member societies, in particular, those members from low resourced areas who might not otherwise be able to easily access these journals. In addition, the WPA webpage for Scientific publications has been improved and we appreciate Professor Kallivayalil and his web team for their assistance.

The journals that are currently available on our website for open access are:

2. European Psychiatry: www.europsy-journal.com
3. Global Psychiatry: https://www.degruyter.co./view/j/gp
We also want to especially thank Professor Te-Jen Lai, President of the Taiwanese Society of Psychiatry and Professor Winston W. Shen, Editor-in-Chief of the Taiwanese Journal of Psychiatry for their leadership and help. The Bulletin of the Asian Association of Psychiatric Associations is published online at www.afpa.asia and is also available as a link with the WPA.

The WPA IBERO-AMERICAN LIBRARY, developed and organized by Professor Alfredo Cia, is having its dedication and we are congratulating Professor Cia for his dedication and commitment to this important repository for Spanish-language scientific texts, supported by the WPA.

We hope to hold several presentations from our scientific publications committee at the WPA World Congress in Berlin in October 2017. Thank you to the leadership of Joao Mauricio Castaldelli Maia and Christopher Szabo for organizing a session from our publications operational committee.

Book Review

Disasters: Mental Health Context and Responses
Editors: George N. Christodoulou, Juan E. Mezzich, Nikos G. Christodoulou, Dusica Lecic-Tosevski
Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2016, 349 pages

Disasters: Mental Health Context and Responses is a fascinating compilation of chapters by expert authors from around the world. Each author uses his/her own unique expertise to outline how disasters impact mental health and comment on methods to mitigate human suffering. The book is presented in three separate but inter-related sections of articles. Each section is dedicated to a disaster subtype: Natural, Human-made (or man-made) and Economic disasters. The psychological impact of earthquakes, droughts, floods, and cyclones, occurring in different areas of the world, is presented in the natural disaster section. Authors from Greece, Turkey, India and Pakistan, for example, explore how disasters can lead to emotional distress and post-traumatic symptoms in the midst of and in the aftermath of a disaster. Epidemiological data is used thoughtfully to support the impact of natural disasters.

In the man-made disaster section, the authors illustrate the influence war and conflict has on mental health in compelling detail. The articles in this section do an extraordinary job of illustrating how women, children and other vulnerable populations are unequally effected. They place an emphasis on the role humanitarian organizations and international law have on preventing conflict and aiding in recovery. Special attention is drawn to preventative psychological interventions and the importance of understanding cultural and historical influences when treating terror exposed individuals. The final section, Economic disasters, discusses how economic crises (substantial drop in GDP and increase in unemployment) have a direct effect on rates of suicide and homicide. Data is drawn specifically from the economic disaster in Greece. Authors address the impact economic and man-made disasters have had on the refugee crisis, which is particularly relevant within our global political climate.

The book creatively ends with a thought provoking section exploring the intersection between art and disaster from a psychoanalytical perspective. This book is an engaging, relevant and informative read for both mental health professionals and the lay reader. It is a reminder of human nature, human suffering and the power of healing. We strongly encourage students, residents and colleagues from throughout the world to read and use this very important and illuminating book for their clinical practices, teaching and research.

From the Secretary for Education

After the kick-off meeting in Madrid on 21st and 22nd of June 2016, the WPA Operational Committee for Education (OpComEd) continued its work during the WPA Congress in Cape Town. The members took notice of educational issues as presented by Prof. Maria Luz Querubin (Philippines), Prof. Silvia Gaviria (Colombia), and Prof. Ahmad Mohamed Al Mai (UAE). Prof. Roger NG (Hong Kong) presented the first data on the questionnaire on training psychiatric residents sent around to all member associations. After discussions, the committee decided to further fine tune the questionnaire and decided to also develop a Spanish version. Prof. Al Mai was so kind to present his support in translating it into Arab. Marc Hermans (Belgium) presented the basic structure and content of a draft version of a document on training to be published by the WPA. This draft has been presented to the WPA Executive Committee in February 2017.

More recently, during the WPA Regional Congress of Latin American psychiatric associations, the members of the OpComEd could agree on the further steps to develop the final document consisting of several sections. It would first give a general educational perspective from WPA addressing the member associations with some suggestions on training.

As educational activity, we are promoting the online course: “Intercultural Competence in Health Context” at the Vall d’Hebron University Hospital, Barcelona, Spain which begins: April 2017. The main objective: training participants to do their professional activities in a culturally and competent way, being able to work efficiently facing current intercultural conditions. Start date: April 2017. End Date: June 2017. Total course duration: Eight (8) weeks. Module duration: Two (2) weeks each one. Dedication: Six (6) hours a week. Kindly write to me belfort.ed@gmail.com for more information.

Prof. DN Nandi (1918-2017)

Dhirendra Nath Nandi graduated in Medicine from University of Calcutta in 1945. After DPM (Scotland 1961) and MRCP (Edinburgh 1963), in 1970 he became Professor and Head of the Department of Psychological Medicine, University of Calcutta. He was President of both the WPA member societies from India- Indian Psychiatric Society and Indian Association of Social Psychiatry- and President, Indian Psycho-analytical Society. His researches in epidemiology and community psychiatry have been widely acclaimed and his contribution towards advancement of Psychiatry and psycho-analysis has been immense. In his demise, we have lost one of our greatest teachers and researchers.

Prof. Brig MSVK Raju, Dr. Gautam Saha and Prof. PB Behere
It would not surprise anyone to learn that sorting out how to reach people with mental health needs in Low and Middle Income Countries (LMIC) is even more challenging than in High Income Countries (HIC). According to the Organization for Economic and Commercial Development, the United States (US) has about 13 psychiatrists per 100,000 people. Now, consider that a country like Mozambique has 13 psychiatrists for 25 million people. Even assuming the rate of psychiatric conditions is about 20% per year, it quickly becomes apparent that there are not going to be enough specialists to provide direct care.

One of the most innovative approaches that Mozambique’s MISAU (Ministerio de Saúde or Ministry of Health) has taken, is to engage in task shifting. Starting in 1996, MISAU started to train physician extenders and community health workers to care for the population’s mental health needs. By training Psychiatric Technicians for 2.5 years to conduct evidence based therapies and prescribe evidence based medications, one per district, they are steadily increasing access to care.

Working with MISAU and Eduardo Mondlane University, Universidade Federal de Sao Paulo in Brazil, and Columbia University and University of Pennsylvania in the US, have formed a partnership to build research capacity. The latest iteration of the partnership is one that focuses on implementation. Implementation science is a relatively new modality of research intended to assist in the evaluation of different strategies for implementing programs. Such research is critically important for all countries, but its impact is even greater in LMIC. Just as important is to ensure that the program is rolled out in a fashion that is most effective and efficient.

The visit this winter included a weeklong course in implementation science, as well as site visits to a peri-urban clinic and to a high school. We decided to visit a clinic that was in the process of implementing a pilot study to treat those with epilepsy (considered a mental health condition in most of the world) under the auspices of the WHO. It was amazing to speak with the providers and hear how, even though they were now treating many more patients with epilepsy who were being identified in the community through a rigorous screening program, they were delighted! Seeing patients get better and how the work that the clinic was doing was changing people’s lives was clearly a fantastic antidote to burnout.

Can community health workers (CHW) be as effective as psychiatric technicians in delivering Motivational Interviewing? Is it sufficient to screen and refer to a clinic to reach those in need or is it better for CHW to deliver the interventions where people live? Thus, one can ascertain which approaches most effectively reach the population in need, while also examining their cost effectiveness.

As well, our visit to the high school was instructive. The WHO program had engaged the students in learning about epilepsy with the idea that this could help destigmatize the condition. The students entered a contest to develop slogans to destigmatize epilepsy. Given common misconceptions such as epilepsy being contagious or evidence of being possessed by spirits, devising a program that encouraged young people to think about ways to “normalize” the individual with epilepsy was inspired.

Every time we go to Mozambique, we are awed by the psychiatrist and psychologists there. The dedication of the Director for Mental Health, Dr. Lidia Gouveia and her determination to serve those who need help in pragmatic ways while staying focused on the need to deliver quality care is amazing. The Vice Minister of Health, Dr. Mouzinho Saide who continues to show his commitment to mental health, has been a staunch supporter of these efforts. A visit with the Minister of Health, Dr. Nazira Abdula, demonstrated the full commitment of policy makers to understand mental health needs and take positive action. With Ministry support, Mozambique can scale up human resources to decrease the huge mental health gap in this low income country. This is an outstanding example for other countries in the same stage of development to follow. One can’t help but think: this is a model country. That despite being the 7th poorest country in the world. Now, that is something!

Dr. Mamta Gautam gave a thought-provoking Distinguished Member Lecture on suicides in the medical community. The always popular CPA CPD Institutes packed the room with delegates eager to learn the latest scientific developments in depression treatment. This year there were three that focused on major depression as a disorder of everyday function, the importance of motivation and energy in the treatment of major depressive disorder, and the bipolar spectrum in depression. ROYAL COLLEGE OF PSYCHIATRISTS (UK)

Pathfinder Fellowships from the Royal College of Psychiatrists provide an opportunity for medical students to develop their interest and prepare for their career in psychiatry. The Fellowships aim to support the next generation of psychiatrists to lead the profession into the future.

Students can apply in their penultimate year of study for the three-year fellowship. Each fellow receives up to £5,000 funding to help them develop their careers in psychiatry. This funding covers Fellows’ attendance at the College International Congress and other College or Psychiatry related events, as well as forming a contribution towards their elective. Fellows are also paired with a mentor who offers advice and support throughout the Fellowship.

When recruiting the 2017 Pathfinder cohort, we increased the number of fellowships available from 10 to 20 and were thrilled with the standard of applications received.

This is the fifth cohort of Pathfinder Fellows and the students’ commitment and achievement continue to be impressive.

In February, we welcomed the 2017 Pathfinder Fellows to the College for their inaugural dinner. Hosted by College President Simon Wessely and Tom Brown, the College’s Pathfinder Ambassador, the dinner marked the formal start of their time as Pathfinders. It also gave the Fellows the opportunity to get to know each other and to meet some of the senior psychiatrists who will be working with them and supporting them over the coming years.

Turkish Neuropsychiatric Society (TNS) was founded in 1914 before the Republic of Turkey was founded, by specialists from the branches of Psychiatry and Neurology, then named as Neuropsychiatry. The Society has been a long-established organization of mental health specialists from various disciplines for a century. The Society is among the founder members of the World Federation of Mental Health in 1948, the World Psychiatric Association in 1950 and the World Federation of Neurology in 1957 during the leadership of Prof. İhsan Şükrü Aksel. The General Assembly of the Society meets every two years in January. There are around 1,000 members at present. The executive committee consists of 7 members who regularly meet at least monthly. The last General Assembly took place in January 2016.

Archives of Neuropsychiatry, the official journal of the Society has been founded in 1964 by Prof. İhsan Şükrü Aksel and colleagues in İstanbul. ‘Neuropsychiatry Days’ is a traditional annual scientific meeting that has been held since 2006, to revive the historical meetings organized in the past heritage. Every year a major theme is selected considering the topics of major interest in psychiatry, neurology, neuroscience, neuropsychology, and philosophy relevant for clinicians, researchers, scholars and trainees.

Mental Health Platform-Turkey (MHPT) has been founded by the invitation from the two major professional societies working in mental health field, Psychiatric Association of Turkey and Turkish Neuropsychiatric Society to societies working for mental health in 2006. PREVENTIVE PSYCHIATRY

We have been active on many fronts recently. Two notable books were published in 2016, with extensive contributions by several members of the Section.

“Crises and disasters: mental health context and responses”

“Person-centred Psychiatry”

This exceptional book includes an array of papers on Person-Centred Psychiatry, which conceptually relates closely to Preventive Psychiatry. Beyond the editors, the following members contributed with papers: Dusica Lecic-Tosevska, Rodrigo Ramalho, Margit Schmolke, Roy A. Kallivayalil, Helen Herman, Roger Montenegro, Angeliki G. Christodoulou, A. Douzenis, Dimitris Anagnostopoulos, Nikos G. Christodoulou, and others.

A third book, towards which the Section has also contributed, is the upcoming 4th volume of “Advances in Psychiatry”, a much awaited and promising sequel to the WPA title.

Also, the Section has participated with presentations of its members in significant meetings in Athens, Belgrade, Thiruvalla, among other places. We are also preparing towards the WPA World Congress in Berlin, having already submitted a large number of sectional and intersectional symposia.

Lastly, we are applying for Erasmus+ funding to support the next phase of our intersectional project (the EPIC Project).

EUROPEAN FEDERATION OF ASSOCIATIONS OF FAMILIES OF PEOPLE WITH MENTAL ILLNESS

The European Federation of Associations of Families of People with Mental Illness organized a meeting in Porto in Nov 2016, bringing together family members of patients suffering from mental ill health to gather their observations on social withdrawal. EUFAMI is an active Project Partner in PRISM, a project that aims to find new treatments more quickly for the three most common brain disorders in Europe: Schizophrenia, Major Depression and Alzheimer’s Disease.

A striking result indicated by family members was their own struggle with social isolation. Comments included, “I was afraid that we bothered the neighbours,” “We stopped going to family gatherings,” “During the crisis, we didn’t speak to anyone about the topic other than the doctor.”

Social withdrawal feeds stigma, which impacts not just patients but entire families. Tackling social withdrawal therefore has enormous potential for positive impact. Committed to supporting families affected by mental illness, EUFAMI is working hard to ensure that their views are represented in policy, practice and research. For more information about our work, visit www.eufami.org, follow us on Twitter (@EUFAMI) and Facebook (@EUFAMI1).

INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY FOR PSYCHOLOGICAL AND SOCIAL APPROACHES TO PSYCHOSIS

ISPS is an international organization promoting psychotherapy and psychological treatments for persons with psychosis (a term which includes persons diagnosed with “schizophrenia”). We are committed to advancing education, training and knowledge of mental health professionals in the treatment and prevention of psychotic mental disorders. The ISPS book series, published by Routledge for over 10 years, contains 20 books illuminating the efficacy of psychological approaches in the treatment of psychoses. EUROPEAN FEDERATION OF PSYCHIATRIC TRAINEES

We continue our mission to foster international collaboration, and hence this will be the topic of our workshop at the upcoming WPA Inter Zonal Congress in Vilnius. EFPT is proud to introduce its newest project, developed in conjunction with the UEMS Section of Psychiatry. “Test your Own Training” (#TYOT) offers a bottom up solution to the question of how to raise awareness of European Training Guidelines amongst trainees themselves. #TYOT is an easy-to-use online tool that will allow any trainee to assess immediately how their training compares to European standards. Take the test yourself at www.efpt.eu/training/TYOT

The CAP section of EFPT has been more active than ever this year. We are actively involved in the Milestone project, examining transitions between CAP and GAP services. We have also made available new CAP rotations in the European Exchange Program. Visit us on our newly updated CAP area of efpt.eu to utilise our new e-learning resources.

All of the above initiatives, and many more, have been the work of EFPT over the past 25 years. We are looking forward to celebrating all that trainees have achieved together at our silver anniversary at this year’s forum in Istanbul. We hope you’ll join us there!
